

Pamela A. Ratliff, M.P.A.

Pamela A. Ratliff, M.P.A. is the Program Manager for Community Education at the Northern California Cancer Center. Her responsibilities include the coordination, operation, and management of educational programs and projects aimed at helping multi-ethnic populations become more informed about cancer. Ms. Ratliff's experience working with diverse and underserved communities in areas such as cancer information, research and training, clinical oncology, community outreach and education, and program administration spans several years. She received her Masters in Public Administration with a concentration in Health Care Administration/Management from Louisiana State University and obtained her Bachelor's degree from the University of New Orleans in Health Services. Ms. Ratliff is actively involved in numerous committees throughout the San Francisco Bay Area and is the Co-Chair of the 3rd Annual African American Breast Cancer Conference, "Each One Reach One: Working Together to Make a Change" aimed at raising awareness about breast cancer in the African American Community.